

happy birthday

While celebrating....for some sense of happiness....through search and question....oneself and one's environment become estranged - as birthday boy - required to adapt to an ever changing awareness, to keep up, and well together.

.....happy bithday to you, happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you, happy birthday to me.

Clint Griffin
january 2001

happy birthday

I am sometimes kept asleep during the day, thinking of different scenes from the pictures that I see, thousands of them, I never see myself or a version of myself, but what I can see in myself are scenarios that I've been in and people that could be the people that I know or knew. In these there is a lot of feelings that I feel, I get sad by, they are inside the scenarios that I don't have and that I have not had. I see who I am close to and who I am not close to, And I think that what I can see, is that which keeps me asleep.

Clint Griffin
january